HOME HEALTH CARE RISK MANAGEMENT CHECKLIST

Risk Management is the process of analyzing your operation, identifying any exposures and implementing controls and techniques to mitigate these exposures. This process is essential to your business insurance but more importantly, to your business in general. From an insurance perspective, the presence of a high quality risk management process will result in a much lower possibility and probability of loss. However, from a business perspective, having risk management controls in place will result in an operation that maintains the highest standards of performance and ethics. Managing a high quality operation will result in greater production and longevity in the marketplace.

The following checklist can be used and enhanced, as needed, as part of your risk management process. Following these guidelines will assist you in managing a high quality operation for many years to come.
